

BEGGAR GIRL'S OLD MOTHER JOINS RICH WOMAN TO ACCUSE DAUGHTER.

Miss Mary Carey

Pretty Mendicant, Parent Says, Makes $5 a Day Asking Alms and Spends It All on Fine Clothes and a Good Time.

Dramatic was the scene enacted in Jefferson Market Court this morning when the last act was given of a little drama begun before J. Pierpont Morgan's home yesterday.

Before the Magistrate's desk stood the daughter of the late millionaire, Samuel T. Carey, Miss Mary Carey, of No. 12 East Forty-first street, as accuser against an east-side girl arraigned for disorderly conduct.

With a note of indignation in her voice Miss Carey told the story of the meeting with the girl.

"I prosecute her not because of the insult to me, but because she is a disgrace to poor people and does harm to those who are really deserving. She is a professional beggar, by her father's own confession."

At the police station last night the accused girl's father told the Sergeant the girl was an incorrigible beggar, and he wanted her sent to the Island.

She is a Russian, dark and pretty, with large brown eyes. Her gown was tasteful and in good condition. She had no appearance of being a mendicant.

"My real name is Sadie Kramer, and I live at No. 194 Orchard street," she said. "I'm an honest, hard-working girl. I live with my parents. They are good people, but we are awfully poor. I haven't had any regular work for some time. I earned a little money by selling books.

"Yesterday I went up on Madison avenue to try to get work. About 4 o'clock, as I stood near the corner of Thirty-sixth street and Madison avenue, I saw this lady come down the steps. She looked so kind and good I thought she might be able to help me. I asked her for work and she said she could do nothing for me.

Then I said: "You have lots of money, won't you help me? I'm starving." She refused. That was all, Judge, really. I didn't make the face at her. It was at a newsboy, who called me a bum while I talked to this lady."

"I have heard enough of this," said Magistrate Cornell, after Policeman Flynn had identified the girl as a beggar he knew. "I'll let you off this time, but if you ever come here again I'll send you to the workhouse for ten days."

To an Evening World reporter the mother told this story:

"Jennie Gold is that girl's real name. I'm her mother, Mrs. Lora Gold, and I live at No. 8 Allen street, with my husband, the girl's father, Abraham Gold.

"Jennie has broken our hearts and disgraced us all. Since she was thirteen years old she has been a beggar. We have been unable to do anything with her.

She began to beg, for six years she has supported herself in that way. Bought the best clothes and going to the theatres all the time. Why, I could dress for two years on what she spends in a month.

"Her plan was to stay around the Sixth avenue department stores, and peddle on rainy days, and beg from the ladies as they came out.

"Five dollars a day was a small sum for her.

"During all these years she has never given one cent to the support of the family, although she has lived upon the money she has made."

"We have whipped her and talked to her still, she has kept on begging. About three years ago she was arrested."

BRAVE WOMAN FOILS THIEF.

Mrs. Weber Prevents the Working of New Scheme of Robbery.

FIGHTS WITH INTRUDER.

Follows Him to Butcher Shop Where He Had Induced Owner to Conceal Him.

Only the plucky fight made by Mrs. Lizzie Weber, of No. 287 Schenck avenue, Brooklyn, prevented her home from being robbed by two thieves, who attempted to put in operation a new plan of thievery. She not only prevented robbery, but helped catch one of the thieves.

A man called at Mrs. Weber's home yesterday afternoon and told such a story of hard luck and hunger that she took him into the kitchen and spread a meal before him. While he was eating another man came to the door and told Mrs. Weber her husband was dead.

Greatly alarmed Mrs. Weber began preparations to go to her husband's place of business. She had forgotten for the moment about the man in the kitchen. As she was putting on her wraps she saw this man making away with her pocketbook, which contained $10.

Realizing at once that she had been duped Mrs. Weber sprang at the robber. She made such an outcry that the second man fled. Mrs. Weber clung to the man with the purse and together they rolled downstairs. He finally released himself from her grasp and rushed into the street.

Running into a butcher shop the man told the owner that he was being pursued by an enemy. The kindly meat seller concealed him in a rear room just as Mrs. Weber appeared. The woman told him her story of robbery. This aroused the butcher's suspicion and he dragged out the man he had just concealed. The man was identified by Mrs. Weber and he was turned over to a policeman.

In the Gates Avenue Court this morning he gave the name of Otto Weidmeyer, fifty-seven years old. He was held for examination.

BLANCHE MYERS.

A SOCIETY LADY'S LETTER.

Miss Blanche Myers, 3129 Penn Street, Kansas City, Mo., a prominent young society woman of that place, has the following to say of Peru-na:

"During each of the past four seasons I have caught a severe cold, when suddenly chilled after an evening party, and catarrh for several weeks would be the result. One bottle of Peru-na cured me, and I shall not dread colds any more as I did."

BLANCHE MYERS.

HOME TREATMENT FREE.

Catarrh Cures by Thousands Under Dr. Hartman's Free Treatment.

Catarrh of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, and pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, and occasionally loss of memory.

Unless something is done to prevent the catarrh will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs, where it will be followed by rough night sweats, rapid loss of flesh and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's treatment comes as a great boon. It is only necessary to send name and address to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., and complete directions for the first month's treatment will be sent free.

Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of catarrh specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land.

A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Peru-na, can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.

Address The Peru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, for a copy of their latest catarrh book, instructively illustrated, and contains 64 pages of the latest information on catarrhal diseases. Sent free to any address.

A Club Woman's Experience.

Mrs. May Thompson, Kirkland, Wis., Treasurer of the Kirkland Lodge, Daughters of Rebecca and I. O. O. F., writes as follows:

"For years I have suffered with severe headaches, caused by catarrh of the head. On the advice of a friend I used Peru-na for a little over a month, and found myself more improved than I had ever hoped to be. Since then I have taken about a dozen bottles and am convinced that it has worked a perfect cure, as I have no aches and pains and do my own work. I would not take any money for what Peru-na has done for me."

MAY THOMPSON.

A Housewife Who Suffered 25 Years.

Mrs. Alla Schwanndt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peru-na I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. I am well."

MRS. ALLA SCHWANNDT.

Mrs. Jennie Cable, Spokane, Wash.: "After suffering for twenty-one years with neuralgia, caused by catarrh of head, I tried all doctors and all kinds of medicine, receiving no benefit. I became discouraged and worn out at last. My mother wrote me to take Dr. Hartman's medicine, as I did; but my case was a chronic one, and I was also in the change of life. Through the use of Peru-na and Manalin I am now entirely well."

MRS. JENNIE CABLE.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

ANDERSON CAUGHT BY CLEVER RUSE.

TAKEN WHILE TALKING TO A LITTLE CHILD.

Man of Family and Sunday-School Superintendent, but He Was Once Before Arrested.

John Anderson, of No. 40 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, a man of wealth and family, and a somewhat clerical air, was arraigned in Harlem Court today, having been arrested while he was talking with a little girl.

Anderson is married and has grown children. He is also superintendent of Sunday School in Harlem. For all that, he was tried and convicted seven months ago for the charge on which he now stands accused and served two months in the Tombs.

At that time he was Chief Clerk in the Department of Buildings, but lost his position when convicted. He claimed that he was the victim of a conspiracy, and many of his church and social friends stood by him.

On the court docket Anderson appeared as James McKenna, of No. 21 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street. He gave that name when arrested, but he pleaded with his captors for leniency, saying exposure would mean his financial and social ruin.

Agent Pisarra, of the Children's Society, recognized Anderson. "He gave $1,000 cash bail in the East One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street when he was arrested on the previous charge," said Pisarra.

Anderson's arrest was caused by Dr. Jackson R. Campbell, of No. 23 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street, who is a Tomba physician. Anderson accosted Dr. Campbell's little daughter, who is only ten years old. She got away by promising to meet him and then told him the police were informed and the little girl was sent ahead to the place of meeting. Anderson took her by the hand and just then Policeman O'Neill and Dr. Campbell pounced upon him.

Anderson was admitted to bail pending examination.

120 CRAZY WOMEN BROUGHT TO TOWN.

TRIED TO EMBRACE TWO FAT POLICEMEN IN HARLEM.

Arrived To-Day from Poughkeepsie to Be Transferred to New Asylum at Central Islip.

From the Harlem Station of the New York Central Railroad there stepped down into One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street this morning a motley crew of women. They numbered 120 and each of them was mad as a March hare. Eight pretty female nurses, four physicians and Superintendent Isaac Green, of the Insane Asylum at Poughkeepsie, were in charge of the strange assortment of femininity.

They had been patients at the Poughkeepsie institution and were on their way to the new State Insane Asylum at Central Islip, L. I. Eight Fifth avenue stages were awaiting them at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Park avenue.

A great crowd gathered to watch the transfer of the insane women to the stages. Two fat policemen from the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station who had been detailed to keep the crowd in order saw of the most embarrassing moments of their lives.

And the hoots and jeers of the mob several of the women attempted to embrace the obese cops. They retreated in a hurry and the crowd had its own way.

The unaccustomed noise and excitement had no good effect upon the insane females. They danced and sang and conducted themselves generally that it was all their nurses could do to control them.

One portly woman, who thinks she is the Queen of Spain, insisted that she have a stage all to herself. It took three of the young nurses to get her to enter a vehicle with other patients, and they had to sit on her.

When the stages were loaded the strange procession went to the foot of East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, followed by a great crowd. The excited insane were transferred by boat to Ward's Island and later on were sent by special train from Long Island City to Central Islip.

RARE BARGAINS FOR WOMEN.

Meyer Jonsson & Co. Must Clear Out This Season's Stock.

Department stores usually have the big bargains to the exclusion of all other stores. But when a manufacturer throws upon the market a large stock, prices take an unexpected tumble.

This has happened in the sale opened to-day by Meyer Jonsson & Co. at their store on Broadway, corner of the Queen. This firm, besides having several retail stores throughout the country, is one of the largest manufacturers of ladies' suits, jackets, coats and skirts in the city.

As the time has come for them to begin the making of the garments for spring trade, they have decided to dispose of every garment now in their store. The bargain, Meyer Jonsson & Co. have themselves put it on sale at their store for the benefit of their own customers.

The entire surplus stock, together with all samples in the wholesale department, is offered at prices that are staggering for their small size.

These garments that were made specially for sale at the leading dry-goods stores of the United States, Tailored and waiting cuts, sport jackets, box coats, walking skirts—every sort of a garment—begin this morning and will be sold on the fifth floor of the building. The regular retail price of the firm will be taken care of as usual, and in the department money bargains will be made.

TOT DIES OF FEAR OF PLAYFUL DOG.

ANIMAL TRIES TO LICK TWO-YEAR-OLD'S FACE.

Youngster Runs to Mother, Falls in Convulsions, and Expires in Fright.

Because a playful dog tried to lick his face four-year-old Giuseppe Lohano, of No. 71 Union street, Brooklyn, is dead from fright.

Giuseppe got a penny from his mother last Saturday for being "good." He toddled to a nearby candy store and invested his fortune in a bright-striped stick of candy.

Hugging his prize, Giuseppe started home just as a homeless cur ran up. The dog leaped up and tried to kiss the boy's face. Shrieking in fear, Giuseppe ran to his mother. He fell in convulsions and remained delirious until death came last night. In his delirium he begged his mother to drive away the bad "how-wow."

Dr. H. Enton, who attended Giuseppe, and Dr. Emil F. Hartung, of the Coroner's office, say the boy died from fright.

WAS PRETTY GIRL GHOST?

There Was No Evidence to That Effect and She Was Discharged.

The ghost, which in a two-weeks' campaign has driven the members of two families at No. 59 Vesey street to the verge of nervous prostration, continued business there in the early hours of this morning and finally caused the arrest of Rose Smer, a pretty girl of twenty.

Julius Blesenthal, whose family has not slept for a week, made a complaint of malicious mischief against the girl, and she was arrested and taken to the Centre Street Police Court.

Detective Cohen arraigned her before Magistrate Brann. Cohen said he believed the girl had caused the mysterious rappings. The girl denied this, however, and as the policeman had no evidence, Magistrate Brann discharged the girl.
